

I feel to allow Cell Phones to be utilised during flight would create more problems than people drinking. People are already having fights onboard flights because someone is being too noisy, playing loud music, DVD's etc.. To have to listen to someone elses phone conversation would be quite frustrating not only to passengers, but also the crew, especially if you have an emergency. Also I feel that any unsavoury characters may communicate with others on the ground to help bring a plane down using GPS, advising elevation etc.. To me, as a Flight Attendant, it is quite a scary idea to allow cell phone use during flight. Thank you for listening.
